i drew the tree while waiting in my doctor's office. i had a sheet of paper listing my current medications and a pen. i thought about this beech tree i visit in the arboretum by my house. i love this tree. two years later, i covered your embossed sheet with a water color drawing of various critters. it wasn't working so i covered it with a thick layer of black squiggles, glued down my improvised tree and was finally satisfied with it. the pencil drawing on the flip side is titled the "B side". B for bonus.
