

DOUG HAIGHT

Over the past year-of-the-Covid, I been stuck in a creative rut. Pretty much all I have done creatively is a series of self portraits with my six month Covid beard and an ongoing alternate instagram account (@d_haight) of masks I come across on the ground. I had no plan for where either was going until arrtruckish, when they both came together in an emotionally dark statement of my mindset during these past 12 trying months.
